

Be different!

2/2016

zub products & services: Customer benefits included

Our products and services include more than appears at first sight. With each zub standard product and each of our OEM solutions you'll receive:

Investment security

Your one-time investments in zub products and in the expansion of expertise are protected by the high level of software compatibility of our products for years to come without your missing out on the latest developments and enhanced performance. The internal architecture of zub solutions allows the repeated adaptation and updating of existing firmware and your applications to the latest technologies and requirements.

Risk reduction & cost optimization zub solutions build upon industrially tested hardware and Motion Control firmware and are also used in security-tested systems. Our solutions add no license fees for operating systems and libraries to your unit costs for the standard products.

Knowledge transfer and short communication pathways

The intensive collaboration on OEM development projects leads to a constant and permanent transfer of knowledge. The developmental risk and possible misunderstandings are thus significantly reduced, an iterative approach promoted and lead times shortened.

Our company structure specifically promotes direct communication with technical contacts and operating employees.

Practical solutions

All zub employees are experienced in the development of control systems and applications. Thanks to their distinctly application-oriented thinking, practical requirements are quickly grasped, understood and efficiently implemented.

Engineering services

We support you in programming your application solution all the way to the initial startup. We are constantly expanding our Motion Control Library and creating prefabricated standard solutions for different types of machinery.